THE BLACK VEIL: everything to print

Print this whole file DOUBLE-SIDED (flip on the long edge), letter paper, background graphics ON. 123 sheets. Every page has a blank back except the character cards, which print front and back. Do not use 'fit to page'.

A. FOR THE GUESTS

Character cards — sheets 2-25
Do not cut. One card per guest, alphabetical, 2 pages each (front and back). Into that guest's envelope.

Envelope sheets — sheets 26-49
Do not cut. One per guest, alphabetical. Folds into that guest's envelope.

House invitations — sheets 50-59
Cut along the dotted line, 2 per page. Each is addressed to a guest: into that guest's envelope.

B. THINGS TO CUT OUT AND PLACE

Slips (and standby copies) — sheets 60-75
Cut on the dashed lines. The line above each slip says whose envelope it goes in. The second half is the STANDBY set for the bar.

Code tags — sheets 76-82
Cut on the dashed grid. The line under each tag says what it goes on; trim it off after matching. Spares go in the standby tray.

Exhibits (binder, black table, scene, sealed pages) — sheets 83-98

Fortune cards — sheets 99-101
Cut apart. Keep at the bar for Josh.

Vial label — sheet 102
Cut the House Stock label (row 1) and glue it round the small bottle. Other rows optional.

Door and table cards — sheets 103-106
Pages 1 and 2 on the door; pages 3 and 4 on the tables.

Bar menu — sheet 107
One copy on the bar.

Table menu card — sheet 108
Cut in half for the tables.

C. HOST ONLY (spoilers: keep these)

Survivor kit — sheets 109-119
Page 1 is yours. Then for each survivor: the Flap and a cut sheet (invitation, marker, address label). The strip at the top names the survivor.

Tag key — sheets 120-121
Which tag goes on which object.

Exhibits index — sheet 122
Every exhibit and where it goes.

Host sheet — sheet 123
Every approval word. Keep behind the bar.

WHAT THE TOWN KNOWS

ALL HALLOWS' EVE, 1924

The masquerade was the talk of Manchester, right up until the music stopped. The orchestra slipped in by the river door. Four masked guests slipped up to the private landing. By midnight the papers were screaming massacre, and nobody could find a body, a name, or a coroner willing to sign for one. The proprietress, Miss Cassie Castello, had vanished with the last dance.

TONIGHT

The black envelopes came to your door, signed by nobody you would dare name. You came anyway. Curious. A little reckless. Wear it well. Before the night is through, someone will be found dead, and the rest of you will have opinions.

FIVE SURVIVORS IN THE ROOM

Five souls the papers swore were lost in 1924 are here tonight in borrowed names and borrowed faces, sipping your drinks and watching your hands. They are guests like you. Before the lights come up you may point at up to four of your fellow guests and say survivor. Be right and it pays a point. Be wrong and it costs you half of one.

LAST CALL

You will be asked three things: what really happened in 1924, who did it tonight and how, and who the dead man is.

YOUR PUBLIC FACE

Builds the finest revolvers in the county and has never fired one. A good gun, like a good argument, is best left in the holster.

BACKGROUND

You sell guns, locks and nails. You keep a register of every poison and every cartridge you have ever sold, and you have a very long memory for who bought what.

- Theodor Farrago: the Sheriff whose revolver you built and who has never loaded it.
- Joshua Kamin-Sky: reads the soot in your chimney; taught you a Yiddish word you are proud of.
- Arjun Bat: bought his bat from your hardware counter.

NEVER SAY IT ALOUD You sold six boxes of blanks to a lady's agent for cash and never asked why.

YOURS TO SHARE You picked up one Yiddish word from Josh, “shmendrik,” and use it more than you should.

WHAT YOU KNOW

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY That October you sold six boxes of blank cartridges to a lady's agent, cash, no name. Blanks. Never a ball.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY A stranger bought a short-barrel revolver from you, billed to “K. Kessler, c/o Fitch & Fitch, Boston.” You remember because nobody ever questioned the invoice.

COSTS A BILL: PAY AT THE BAR In 1921 you sold the Veil a vault lock with three keyways and a dial. The combination was set in your shop by one person, a lady, alone.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY Your poison register shows the House bought four ounces of nux vomica tincture in September, “for river rats,” signed R. Chow.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY An old man came to your shop in 1925 and asked whether a safe could be drilled if the dial's combination were lost. You said no, not without the lady who set it.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY About Rhea Mallya of Mallya's Emporium: You sold the House its last bottle of nux vomica and rang it up as “river rats” without asking how many.

You start with $1,000 in House bills (10 × $100)

YOUR OBJECTIVES

OBJECTIVE 1 A thing to find

Find the pirate sign. It stays where it is, in a shared room, with a small black tag taped on or beside it. Look for the "Swab the deck or walk the plank" sign. Read the tag and type its code.

OBJECTIVE 2 Who were you?

Find out what your real job was before you took this cover. The guest named below noticed something about you that a cover cannot hide.

Type: What was your real trade? 1 POINT

Objectives 3 to 5 are in your black envelope

YOUR PUBLIC FACE

Every wire in town crosses their desk after dark. News travels fast, and these two are first to read it.

BACKGROUND

Every wire that goes in or out of Manchester after dark passes through your hands. You decoded one in 1924 and were told to forget it. You wrote it down instead. Charlie, who works the key beside you, keeps the night shift company.

- Leon Gee: your friend at WFEA, who sends messages that look innocent and are not.
- J. Bruce Wayne: wires his tailor in London, and tips like a man who wants to be remembered.
- Erika Lamm: wanted; has bought a telegram form from you and does not say why.

NEVER SAY IT ALOUD You once filed a telegram, paid in advance, with no sender.

WHAT YOU KNOW

COSTS A BILL: PAY AT THE BAR The telegram said to carry Cassie's orders was filed at Boston North Station in a clerk's block capitals, paid by a Boston account, on a day Cassie was last seen in Manchester.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY The five unsigned envelopes were handed in at your counter by a woman in a veil with a stiff left shoulder. She paid in advance, in gold, and said they were from someone who was 'quite well.'

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY In 1925 an old man dictated twenty-two names for you to wire to a Boston lawyer. You wired them and kept the carbon; you understood only when you saw the same hand at the top of the Roll of Placements.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY Your invitation carried a private line from the House: be ready at half past nine to wire a piece of news to every paper in New England.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY On 7 October twenty-four envelopes crossed your counter: nineteen signed “The House,” paid for by a Boston account, and five unsigned, in a woman's hand, ending “The veil lifts.”

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY A telegraph slip once passed under your pencil: “Notary to sign forged orders under duress; if he refuses, he joins the List.”

YOURS TO SHARE Erika bought a telegram form from you and watched the door the whole time. A fugitive's habit, nothing more.

BACKGROUND

Your late father was the Black Veil's Silent Partner from the first night: the standing reservation upstairs, the drafts paid to a vault and never to a bank. He left you the Manor, its mortgage, and a brass key on a ribbon he called “the Silent Partner's tooth.”

NEVER SAY IT ALOUD You inherited your father's brass key on a ribbon. He called it "the Silent Partner's tooth" and would never say what it opens.

COSTS A BILL: PAY AT THE BAR "K.K." endorsed every Mahns draft for three years: an old man with a white beard and a watch he never reset.

YOURS TO SHARE Your father used to mock him: "Nine o'clock, honey in the rye, as if the clock needed him."

NEVER SAY IT ALOUD In 1925 he asked you in writing, three times, for your father's brass key. You never answered.

LAST CALL

You will be asked three things: what really happened in 1924, who did it tonight and how, and who the dead man is.

YOUR PUBLIC FACE

Steady hands, a black bag, and a bedside manner that talks patients out of a fuss. Will see you sooner or later.

BACKGROUND

You have been the county physician for four years and the Sheriff's examiner for three. You have seen what a stage looks like and what a body looks like, and you can tell the two apart.

- Theodor Farrago: the Sheriff, who asks you what killed them and rarely likes the answer.
- Rhea Mallya: the Emporium's druggist fills your prescriptions.
- Silas Palmer: the bandleader whose throat you treat.

NEVER SAY IT ALOUD You ate beet sandwiches for a week to prove the “blood” was beets and sugar.

WHAT YOU KNOW

YOURS TO SHARE That night you were called to a fainting guest, not a wound: the “blood” on the glove smelled of beet and sugar. No coroner was ever summoned and you signed no certificate.

COSTS A BILL: PAY AT THE BAR You reviewed several of those “accidents” and noticed the same thing in each: a small number sewn inside the coat lining, running from 1 to 17 and never beyond.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY As the county physician you are the only one who may examine the body. The signs you will find point to strychnine in sweetened rye.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY The numbers sewn into the coat linings ran 1 to 17. Never 18 to 22.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY Your invitation carried a private line from the House: be ready at half past nine to certify a death. It did not say whose.

YOURS TO SHARE His hands carry no oil. There are clerk's calluses on the right thumb, the kind you earn counting coin for a living.

YOURS TO SHARE Her left forefinger carries a seamstress's pin-pricks. A shopkeeper's hands do not look like that.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY You certified Olive Brandt, a seamstress, in February 1925 after a carriage ran her down. The pins in her hem were the Veil's masks. Every girl in her room died within the year.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY About Krrish Vermouth: You delivered a crate of wine in November 1924 on a draft signed K. Kessler to a grey Hudson that later turned up in the river.

YOUR HABIT You dot every i with a tiny ring when you write, as you were taught writing prescriptions. Do it on anything you sign or note.

WHAT THE TOWN KNOWS

ALL HALLOWS' EVE, 1924

The masquerade was the talk of Manchester, right up until the music stopped. The orchestra slipped in by the river door. Four masked guests slipped up to the private landing. By midnight the papers were screaming massacre, and nobody could find a body, a name, or a coroner willing to sign for one. The proprietress, Miss Cassie Castello, had vanished with the last dance.

TONIGHT

The black envelopes came to your door, signed by nobody you would dare name. You came anyway. Curious. A little reckless. Wear it well. Before the night is through, someone will be found dead, and the rest of you will have opinions.

FIVE SURVIVORS IN THE ROOM

Five souls the papers swore were lost in 1924 are here tonight in borrowed names and borrowed faces, sipping your drinks and watching your hands. They are guests like you. Before the lights come up you may point at up to four of your fellow guests and say survivor. Be right and it pays a point. Be wrong and it costs you half of one.

LAST CALL

You will be asked three things: what really happened in 1924, who did it tonight and how, and who the dead man is.

YOUR PUBLIC FACE

Never far from a door, and never in one town for long. Always seems to be leaving, even when arriving.

BACKGROUND

You bought a false name from a masked man at the river steps on 31 October 1924 and you have been using a different one every season since. You hid at Rebecca's boarding house more than once.

- Rebecca Chow: has hidden you, for money, and will again.
- Ananya Codru: sold you a blank telegram form without asking why.
- Theodor Farrago: the Sheriff who wants you, and has never recognised you in a hat.

NEVER SAY IT ALOUD You bought a name at the river steps for $20 and were told at least twenty others did too.

WHAT YOU KNOW

YOURS TO SHARE That night you bought a false name from a masked man at the river steps, $20 and no questions. So did half the river. “The Exit,” he called it.

YOURS TO SHARE He looked at your false papers for one second and named the stationer who printed them. Forgers know forgers.

YOURS TO SHARE The gunsmith never sits with his back to a door and always counts the exits. You recognise it because you do it too.

YOURS TO SHARE You have watched the Sheriff check every exit in every room for a year. It's habit, not guilt.

COSTS A BILL: PAY AT THE BAR You hid on the river road that winter and watched the Veil's runners go one by one; the last was thrown off the steps, and the girl who ran with him ran.

YOUR HABIT You check the exits wherever you go and sit where you can see the door. A fugitive's habit.

You start with $600 in House bills (6 × $100)

One gusher made a fortune, and the whole town has heard the story twice. Wells run dry; the swagger never does.

BACKGROUND

Nag Oil struck one gusher in 1923 and the whole town has heard the story twice. The wells have run dry since, and you have kept that quiet.

- Angelos Bowles: the card sharp who owes you for a night you both remember differently.
- Diwakar Sandbagg: the prizefighter whose purses you stake, and are curious about.
- Eric Leeway: the judge who rules on your drilling leases, and on little else you do.

NEVER SAY IT ALOUD Your “gusher” was a burst water main, and you lost a bet to the Keeper over it.

WHAT YOU KNOW

COSTS A BILL: PAY AT THE BAR You once lost a bet with him. His terms: “I will be drinking my rye at nine o'clock, with honey in it, wherever I am.”

YOURS TO SHARE A Veil marker was a number and a promise. The old members carried them, and the House honoured one, once, from its owner only.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY About Sidd Airwind: You trained a mechanic who was later paid to be careless once.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY About Tiffany Liu of the Lamps: You cut the brass plate “KEEPER · K.K.” and your chisel slipped on the second K.

WHAT THE TOWN KNOWS

ALL HALLOWS' EVE, 1924

The masquerade was the talk of Manchester, right up until the music stopped. The orchestra slipped in by the river door. Four masked guests slipped up to the private landing. By midnight the papers were screaming massacre, and nobody could find a body, a name, or a coroner willing to sign for one. The proprietress, Miss Cassie Castello, had vanished with the last dance.

TONIGHT

The black envelopes came to your door, signed by nobody you would dare name. You came anyway. Curious. A little reckless. Wear it well. Before the night is through, someone will be found dead, and the rest of you will have opinions.

FIVE SURVIVORS IN THE ROOM

Five souls the papers swore were lost in 1924 are here tonight in borrowed names and borrowed faces, sipping your drinks and watching your hands. They are guests like you. Before the lights come up you may point at up to four of your fellow guests and say survivor. Be right and it pays a point. Be wrong and it costs you half of one.

LAST CALL

You will be asked three things: what really happened in 1924, who did it tonight and how, and who the dead man is.

YOUR PUBLIC FACE

Hollers the headlines from the corner before the ink is dry. If it's news, Molly has it, and so does everyone within three blocks.

BACKGROUND

You have sold the Farrago on the corner of Elm and Hanover since 1919, and your papers reach every door in this room. A still in the Mahns Manor cellar pays for the dress you are wearing.

- Anika Mahns: your landlady in the cellar, and your best customer.
- Leon Gee: your headlines run on his radio the next morning, without credit.
- Eric Leeway: pays you to keep his name off the court column.

YOURS TO SHARE The Farrago's 1924 society column called it “the Keeper's nine-o'clock rye with honey.”

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY A Boston courier left a ledger page with you in 1925 headed “Roll of Placements”: twenty-two names, seventeen crossed out in a clerk's hand. You kept it and told no one.

COSTS A BILL: PAY AT THE BAR Selling the Farrago outside the cemetery gate in 1925, you counted the new graves of the Veil's people: seventeen. A clerk's note you found said “twenty-two to be placed.”

YOUR PUBLIC FACE

Runs the house, pours the drinks, keeps the secrets. Hears everything, repeats nothing, and holds the keys to every room.

BACKGROUND

You run the House: the bar, the locks, the tin box that holds the night's takings. You also keep a boarding house on the West Side, which is where a certain lady hid on the night of 31 October 1924 with a bandaged shoulder. Someone paid you $200 to forget her.

- Tim McGinley: supplies the House, and has seen what is under your bar.

WHAT YOU KNOW

NEVER SAY IT ALOUD Your boarding-house register still has a page for Room 3 on 31 October 1924: a lady with a bandaged shoulder, and a margin note that “Mr. K.” paid you $200 to forget her.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY You keep the note Cassie left on your pillow in Room 3: “Thank you for the shoulder. — C.” She dots every i with a plain dot, never a ring.

You will be asked three things: what really happened in 1924, who did it tonight and how, and who the dead man is.

YOUR PUBLIC FACE

The finest gin in Manchester comes out of the biggest bathtub, delivered with a smile and no questions.

BACKGROUND

You are in your second year of going straight, which means your gin now has a license plate. You ran the launch at the foot of the river steps in 1924 and have been trying to forget what you saw.

- Rebecca Chow: the House's Butler; you supply the House, and what it does not know about your gin is little.
- Rhea Mallya: stocks your gin in the Emporium's back room under the label of a tonic.
- Anthony Hung: your lawyer; you do not pay him on time.

THE BLACK VEIL

Tim McGinley, Baron of Bathtub Gin · Private

PRIVATE

NEVER SAY IT ALOUD Two passengers went down the river steps that night; one came back alone with blood on his cuff.

WHAT YOU KNOW

NEVER SAY IT ALOUD You ran the launch at the foot of the river steps that night. Two passengers went down the stairs; one came back alone with blood on his cuff and told you to forget the second. You have not forgotten.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY You ran the launch the night of 31 October and saw a woman with a bandaged shoulder pull herself out of the water at the foot of the river steps, alive, while the Keeper's car drove away without her.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY At the druggist's in September you saw R. Chow of the House sign the poison book for four ounces of nux vomica tincture, “for river rats.”

YOURS TO SHARE The House keeps a bottle of “rat tincture” under the bar for the river rats. You have seen the Butler lock it away: one sale a night, markers only.

COSTS A BILL: PAY AT THE BAR Your invitation was on House stock, signed only “The House,” and posted from Boston. The House has not written to you since 1924, and you owe it a favour you have been dreading.

YOURS TO SHARE You have lost to Angelos at cards since 1919. The way he counts chips with his thumb is just the trade.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY The launch fare for the vault advance was paid out of “the Teller's share.” Later you learned that same share paid the hitman.

YOURS TO SHARE She once walked from the river steps to Elm Street in four minutes by streets that are not on any map. A courier's trick.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY That winter the Veil's runners died one at a time. The last was thrown into the river off the Granite Street steps, and the boatman who did it bragged that it was paid for out of the other runner's own share.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY About Dr. Emmerich Sunner: You ate beet sandwiches for a week to prove the “blood” was beets and sugar.

TRADE IT, DON'T GIVE IT AWAY About Rebecca Chow, Butler of the Black Veil: The House whiskey is cold tea, and you took $200 to forget Room 3.

You start with $1,500 in House bills (15 × $100)

YOUR OBJECTIVES

OBJECTIVE 1 Money to make

A baron's business is the margin. Sell, trade and bargain. Leave with at least $2,100. Count your bills at the end and submit the total. Bartend Joe may ask to see them.

Type: Dollars in your pocket at the end 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 2 A thing to find

Find the launch's fog horn. It stays where it is, in a shared room, with a small black tag taped on or beside it. Look for the conch shell. Read the tag and type its code.

Type: The code on the tag 1 POINT

Objectives 3 to 5 are in your black envelope

If you are one of the five, your private page already knows. Everyone else's has the same sealed flap with nothing behind it.

Type your answers on your phone whenever you like. Only your last answer counts.

Your black envelope

Objectives 3 to 5

OBJECTIVE 3 Why you?

Find out what the Keeper did to you: what he took, or who he used to do it. The guest named below saw part of it. Either answer counts.

Type: What did he do? 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 4 The old man's hour

The Keeper takes a nightcap at a fixed hour, in a fixed room. Until then the glass on his table is only a glass. Learn the hour, so you know how long you have.

Type: The hour of his nightcap 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 5 Make your offer to the House

The House keeps one bottle for those who can pay in a marker. Before the nightcap is served at nine o'clock, take your marker to the Butler at the bar and make your offer. The House counts every offer, whether the answer is yes or no.

Type: In a sentence, what did the Butler say? 1 POINT

ACT FAST OR LOSE THIS POINT

The first to complete this task gets the point. Buy the House's vial from the Butler before anyone else does. The House's own log decides it.

What is in this envelope is for you alone. Keep a straight face, and enjoy the night.

Type your answers on your phone whenever you like. Only your last answer counts.

THE BLACK VEIL

Ananya Codru and Charlie Wakem

Your black envelope

Objectives 3 to 5

OBJECTIVE 3 What Rebecca Chow, Butler of the Black Veil is hiding

Everyone has something they would rather not say. Learn Rebecca Chow, Butler of the Black Veil's small secret, not by being told it is a secret, but by earning it. Someone is guarding this one, so expect a harder time: a real try still earns half a point.

Type: The key word or name 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 4 Your own secret

Your small secret is worth two halves. Let Angelos Bowles earn it from you (half a point), and make sure Anika Mahns of Mahns Manor never does (half a point). You will not be asked anything: it is scored from what they each learn. You may also sell it to anyone for $200 in House bills, but a sale to Anika Mahns of Mahns Manor costs you that half.

Type: In a sentence, how did you manage it? (optional) 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 5 Cassie's hand

Cassie signed her notes in a particular way. Learn how, from someone who kept her correspondence.

Type: How she signed 1 POINT

ACT FAST OR LOSE THIS POINT

The first to complete this task gets the point. Bring back three reply slips from three different guests. Five guests are carrying them: ask around, and whoever has one will hand it to you. Type the three codes.

Tool token: hand it to anyone who asks for it by name.

You will be handed at the door: blank telegram form, Tool token

What is in this envelope is for you alone. Keep a straight face, and enjoy the night.

Type your answers on your phone whenever you like. Only your last answer counts.

THE BLACK VEIL

Objectives 3 to 5

OBJECTIVE 3 A fair trade

Strike a bargain with Diwakar Sandbagg: your House chip for their carnival giraffe. It must be a deal, never a grab. When you hold it, read the code on its tag.

Type: The code on the tag you received 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 4 What Ananya Codru and Charlie Wakem is hiding

Everyone has something they would rather not say. Learn Ananya Codru and Charlie Wakem's small secret, not by being told it is a secret, but by earning it.

Type: The key word or name 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 5 Deal them in

Run a card game for at least three guests, and deal every hand yourself. When it is done, tap Claim this point and go to Bartend Joe at the bar. He will check with a player or two and give you the approval word.

Type: The approval word from Bartend Joe 1 POINT

ACT FAST OR LOSE THIS POINT

The first to complete this task gets the point. Collect three trade slips from three different guests. Five guests are carrying them: ask around, and whoever has one will deal with you. Type the three codes.

Reply slip: hand it to anyone who asks for it by name.

You will be handed at the door: House chip, Reply slip

What is in this envelope is for you alone. Keep a straight face, and enjoy the night.

Type your answers on your phone whenever you like. Only your last answer counts.

Objectives 3 to 5

OBJECTIVE 3 A fair trade

Strike a bargain with Krrish Vermouth: your Mahns crested spoon for their Silent Partner's brass key. It must be a deal, never a grab. When you hold it, read the code on its tag.

Type: The code on the tag you received 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 4 A sneaky request

Your father had a signature tune, and you want to know who in this room knew him. Hand Silas Palmer your Mahns Manor voucher ($30) and ask him to play the tune around half past eight and call it a request from the room. Watch who stops, hums or leaves. He hands you a request card: read its code.

Type: The code on the request card 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 5 What Ananya Codru and Charlie Wakem is hiding

Everyone has something they would rather not say. Learn Ananya Codru and Charlie Wakem's small secret, not by being told it is a secret, but by earning it. Someone is guarding this one, so expect a harder time: a real try still earns half a point.

Type: The key word or name 1 POINT

THE BUTLER

1. You are the Butler. At the bar you hold the House Tin, the House Book and a single bottle of the House's own tincture for “river rats.”
2. The bottle sells once a night, and only against a numbered marker handed to you by its owner. When a guest offers a marker, open the House panel on your phone, type the five-character code printed on it, and the phone tells you whether to sell. If it says sold, hand over the vial. If it says sold out, hand the marker back. The House counts every offer.
3. Whatever you do, never reveal who bought the tincture until after the body is found. After that, you may sell the answer or keep it: $100 is a fair price.
4. At a quarter past nine you take the Keeper his rye. You will find him. Scream.
5. Nobody takes the marker from you, and you take nothing from anyone: it is all deals, always.

OBJECTIVE 5 Make your offer to the House

The House keeps one bottle for those who can pay in a marker. Before the nightcap is served at nine o'clock, take your marker to the Butler at the bar and make your offer. The House counts every offer, whether the answer is yes or no.

Type: In a sentence, what did the Butler say?

1 POINT

ACT FAST OR LOSE THIS POINT

The first to complete this task gets the point. Buy the House's vial from the Butler before anyone else does. The House's own log decides it.

What is in this envelope is for you alone. Keep a straight face, and enjoy the night.

Type your answers on your phone whenever you like. Only your last answer counts.

THE BLACK VEIL

Sheriff Theodor Farrago

Your black envelope

Objectives 3 to 5

OBJECTIVE 3 What Krrish Vermouth is hiding

Everyone has something they would rather not say. Learn Krrish Vermouth's small secret, not by being told it is a secret, but by earning it. Someone is guarding this one, so expect a harder time: a real try still earns half a point.

Type: The key word or name 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 4 Your own secret

Your small secret is worth two halves. Let Anthony Hung, Esq. earn it from you (half a point), and make sure Rebecca Chow, Butler of the Black Veil never does (half a point). You will not be asked anything: it is scored from what they each learn. You may also sell it to anyone for $200 in House bills, but a sale to Rebecca Chow, Butler of the Black Veil costs you that half.

Type: In a sentence, how did you manage it? (optional) 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 5 Make the arrest

When the body is found, take charge, question the room, and make an arrest by a quarter past ten. Then tap Claim this point and go to Bartend Joe at the bar for your approval word.

Type: The approval word from Bartend Joe 1 POINT

ACT FAST OR LOSE THIS POINT

The first to complete this task gets the point. Collect three witness slips from three different guests. Five guests are carrying them: ask around, and whoever has one will hand it to you. Type the three codes.

Reply slip: hand it to anyone who asks for it by name.

THE SHERIFF

1. You are the Sheriff. The law of the night is yours: when the body is found, take charge, tell people to stand back, and keep the scene as you found it. Nothing leaves the room.
2. You hold the Coroner's Folder, sealed until the scream. Open it at the scene. It holds the physician's printed report and a scene code.
3. You hold a Nuisance Citation against Leon Gee, for being insufferable on the radio. You may serve it on him, or you may take a bribe from a go-between and tear it up. Either way, the choice is yours.
4. You may question anyone. Nobody has to answer, and the host will not rule on what they say. What you learn is yours to trade.

You will be handed at the door: Nuisance Citation, Reply slip

What is in this envelope is for you alone. Keep a straight face, and enjoy the night.

Type your answers on your phone whenever you like. Only your last answer counts.

THE BLACK VEIL

Sidd Airwind

Your black envelope

Objectives 3 to 5

OBJECTIVE 3 What Judge Eric Leeway is hiding

Everyone has something they would rather not say. Learn Judge Eric Leeway's small secret, not by being told it is a secret, but by earning it. Someone is guarding this one, so expect a harder time: a real try still earns half a point.

Type: The key word or name 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 4 The thing behind the wall

A wall in the Merrimack Room hides something. Learn what, from those who built or swept it.

Type: What it hides 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 5 How many were there?

Seventeen strangers died in accidents in one county. Learn the count from someone who counted.

Type: The number 1 POINT

ACT FAST OR LOSE THIS POINT

The first to complete this task gets the point. Bring back three reply slips from three different guests. Five guests are carrying them: ask around, and whoever has one will hand it to you. Type the three codes.

Witness slip: hand it to anyone who asks for it by name.

You will be handed at the door: Witness slip

What is in this envelope is for you alone. Keep a straight face, and enjoy the night.

Type your answers on your phone whenever you like. Only your last answer counts.

THE BLACK VEIL

Silas Palmer of the Palm Court

Your black envelope

Objectives 3 to 5

OBJECTIVE 3 A sneaky request

Anika Mahns wants to know who in this room knew her father. Take her $30 voucher, play her father's signature tune around half past eight, and call it a request from the room. Hand her the request card and keep the voucher: read its code. Nobody is to know.

Type: The code on the voucher 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 4 What Judge Eric Leeway is hiding

Everyone has something they would rather not say. Learn Judge Eric Leeway's small secret, not by being told it is a secret, but by earning it.

Type: The key word or name 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 5 The spotlight

Around half past eight, take the floor for five minutes, with the band or without it. When you have finished, tap Claim this point and go to Bartend Joe at the bar for your approval word.

Type: The approval word from Bartend Joe 1 POINT

ACT FAST OR LOSE THIS POINT

The first to complete this task gets the point. Bring back three reply slips from three different guests. Five guests are carrying them: ask around, and whoever has one will hand it to you. Type the three codes.

Trade slip: hand it to anyone who asks for it by name.

You will be handed at the door: request card, Trade slip

What is in this envelope is for you alone. Keep a straight face, and enjoy the night.

Type your answers on your phone whenever you like. Only your last answer counts.

THE BLACK VEIL

Tiffany Liu of the Lamps

Your black envelope

Objectives 3 to 5

OBJECTIVE 3 A pardon, brokered

Take at least $100 in House bills from Leon Gee and carry a Pardon slip to Sheriff Farrago. If he takes it, he tears up his citation and hands it to you: read the code on the torn citation. Give Leon a go-between's receipt.

Type: The code on the torn citation 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 4 What Rebecca Chow, Butler of the Black Veil is hiding

Everyone has something they would rather not say. Learn Rebecca Chow, Butler of the Black Veil's small secret, not by being told it is a secret, but by earning it.

Type: The key word or name 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 5 Your own secret

Your small secret is worth two halves. Let Arjun Bat earn it from you (half a point), and make sure Joshua Kamin-Sky never does (half a point). You will not be asked anything: it is scored from what they each learn. You may also sell it to anyone for $200 in House bills, but a sale to Joshua Kamin-Sky costs you that half.

Type: In a sentence, how did you manage it? (optional) 1 POINT

ACT FAST OR LOSE THIS POINT

The first to complete this task gets the point. Gather three tool tokens from three different guests. Five guests are carrying them: ask around, and whoever has one will hand it to you. Type the three codes.

Trade slip: hand it to anyone who asks for it by name.

You will be handed at the door: earring, Pardon slip, go-between's receipt, Trade slip

What is in this envelope is for you alone. Keep a straight face, and enjoy the night.

Type your answers on your phone whenever you like. Only your last answer counts.

THE BLACK VEIL

Tim McGinley, Baron of Bathtub Gin

Your black envelope

Objectives 3 to 5

OBJECTIVE 3 A fair trade

Strike a bargain with Arjun Bat: your jar of bathtub gin for their lucky ball. It must be a deal, never a grab. When you hold it, read the code on its tag.

Type: The code on the tag you received 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 4 What Diwakar Sandbagg is hiding

Everyone has something they would rather not say. Learn Diwakar Sandbagg's small secret, not by being told it is a secret, but by earning it. Someone is guarding this one, so expect a harder time: a real try still earns half a point.

Type: The key word or name 1 POINT

OBJECTIVE 5 Your own secret

Your small secret is worth two halves. Let Erika Lamm earn it from you (half a point), and make sure Diwakar Sandbagg never does (half a point). You will not be asked anything: it is scored from what they each learn. You may also sell it to anyone for $200 in House bills, but a sale to Diwakar Sandbagg costs you that half.

Type: In a sentence, how did you manage it? (optional) 1 POINT

ACT FAST OR LOSE THIS POINT

The first to complete this task gets the point. Collect three trade slips from three different guests. Five guests are carrying them: ask around, and whoever has one will deal with you. Type the three codes.

Tool token: hand it to anyone who asks for it by name.

You will be handed at the door: jar of bathtub gin, Tool token

What is in this envelope is for you alone. Keep a straight face, and enjoy the night.

RECEIPTS

Canadian, river-side, by the case.

Protection, the Mill's friend, by the quarter.

Deposits, the Silent Partner (Mr. M.): by draft, to the vault, never to the bank.

"The books show more than the club should be able to afford. In the wrong hands they show why."

Signed: K.K.

FILING CODE: Y636R

RECEIPTS

THE HITMEN, retained by K.K.

$40 a name, half in advance, half on the word “settled.”

Advance drawn from the Teller's share (B. Crane, No. 18). “His own money pays for it. Fitting.”

Charged to my account: one grey Hudson (J. Hudson & Co.); one short-barrel revolver (Ouldsfiya Arms).

Charged to the Runner's share (Pike, W.): one boatman, paid to be careless, at the Granite Street steps.

MEMORANDUM

THE VAULT

It opens to three keys turned together, and then a dial.

One key, the Keeper's ring. One key, the Silent Partner's brass key. One key, C.C.'s diamond bar pin.

The dial is set, and known, by C.C. alone.

> “I have two keys and the pin's maker. I have the lock. I do not have the lady.”

FILING CODE: A89YC

Three orders, “in C.C.'s hand,” as shown to the court in 1925.

Proceed as directed.

A door was drawn on the plans for those who wished to leave their names behind.

THE SOOTHSAYER

What the town knows

ALL HALLOWS' EVE, 1924

The masquerade was the talk of Manchester, right up until the music stopped. The orchestra slipped in by the river door. Four masked guests slipped up to the private landing. By midnight the papers were screaming massacre, and nobody could find a body, a name, or a coroner willing to sign for one. The proprietress, Miss Cassie Castello, had vanished with the last dance.

TONIGHT

The black envelopes came to your door, signed by nobody you would dare name. You came anyway. Curious. A little reckless. Wear it well. Before the night is through, someone will be found dead, and the rest of you will have opinions.

FIVE SURVIVORS IN THE ROOM

Five souls the papers swore were lost in 1924 are here tonight in borrowed names and borrowed faces, sipping your drinks and watching your hands. They are guests like you. Before the lights come up you may point at up to four of your fellow guests and say survivor. Be right and it pays a point. Be wrong and it costs you half of one.

LAST CALL

You will be asked three things: what really happened in 1924, who did it tonight and how, and who the dead man is.

A WORD TO THE SURVIVORS

If you are one of the five, your private page already knows. Everyone else's has the same sealed flap with nothing behind it. Nobody can tell by looking. Keep a straight face. Everyone’s objectives are released at the start of the game, and the survivors find out who they are at the same moment.

THE BLACK VEIL

The rules of the night

1. Your card has three tabs. Public is what everyone knows. Background is your history and the people you know. Private is yours alone: your secrets, your five objectives, and anything you must not say aloud.
2. At eight o'clock every card opens at once. From then on the room is a cocktail party. Mingle, trade, bargain. Each objective is worth one point.
3. Later in the evening a body will be found. There is no town hall and no host to rule on anything. Question whom you like. Nobody is forced to answer.
4. Nothing is ever taken from anyone. Props change hands by a deal, and nobody brings anything: whatever you carry is handed to you at the door. Hidden game pieces are only in shared rooms, never in bedrooms, bathrooms, closets or drawers.
5. Some objectives happen in the room, not on your phone: you do them for real, tap Claim, then go to Bartend Joe at the bar, who gives you an approval word to type once he is satisfied it happened.
6. You start with House bills ($100 each). Some clues cost a bill: a line tagged "Costs $100 at the bar" is told only after you drop a $100 bill in the House Tin. Your own small secret can be sold to another guest, for $200. At the end, count your bills: the quarter of the room that ends the night best off against where they started (the most gained, or the least spent) earns an extra point.
7. Walk, do not run, and keep your drink in your hand.
8. Type your answers into your phone whenever you like, and as often as you like. Only your last answer to each question counts. The site will not tell you whether you were right; nobody will, until the end.
9. Points come from your five objectives (5), the survivors you name (up to 4), and above all the three mysteries: the Old, the New and the Connection (10). Each group races for one extra point, and the best-off quarter of the room earns one more. Finish every objective and never work out the story and you cannot win.

No. 21	`H3T4V`	Adam Holdsfire	Dominic Marek, The Doorman	You never sit with your back to a door, and you count the exits in every room you enter.
No. 22	`XRTG9`	Molly Daniel of the Manchester Union	Winifred “Winnie” Pike, The Runner	You glance at the nearest clock every time a door opens, and again when it closes.

HOW TO USE THE PAGES THAT FOLLOW

- Each survivor has three pages: The Flap (their secret page), then a cut sheet with Cassie's unsigned invitation, the marker and an address label.
- Cut along the dotted lines. The strip across the top of every page names the guest and marker number, so the pieces can be sorted into five piles.
- The marker is honoured once, at the bar, by its owner. Its code is in the table above; the Butler types it.
- Print this page on its own and keep it. Do not leave it on the printer.

THE BLACK VEIL

You are one who got away

Bertrand “Barty” Crane

The Teller

MARKER No. 18

WHO YOU WERE

You are Bertrand “Barty” Crane, the Black Veil's Teller. You counted the vault's exit advance by hand on 31 October 1924. “Nag Oil” is a name and a gusher you bought with a share of Cassie's gold, and you learned to talk like an oilman because swagger is only arithmetic with an audience.

HOW YOU GOT AWAY

Someone came for you at Hosmer's rooms on Spring Street. You left a body-sized fire in the room, and the search ended there.

YOUR TELL

You count invisible bills with your thumb across your fingertips whenever money, a price or the odds come up. Do it at least three times before the nightcap.

WHAT LEAKS THROUGH

You can count a stack of bills by feel and know any sum to the cent.

THE RULES FOR YOU

1. You are one who got away. You know the old man hunted you and the people you trusted, and you know who he is. Others probably escaped too, but you do not know how many or who. Everyone else has been told only that survivors are in the room. Your cover is your public card. Keep it.
2. Your invitation came unsigned, and it knew the new name you have used ever since. Only one person could have known it. Working out who is one of your errands.
3. You carry marker No. 18. It is yours alone: never trade it, never give it away. It is how you pay the House.
4. You have told yourself so many stories since 1925 that you are no longer certain of your real reason for coming. You only know that you must be the one. Somebody in this room saw what he did to you; finding out is one of your errands.
5. The House keeps one bottle of tincture and sells it once a night, to whoever shows the Butler a marker first. Make your offer before the nightcap is served at nine o'clock. Only one of you can be the one.
6. If the Butler sells to you, the Keeper's nightcap waits in a glass on his table in the Merrimack Room. Pour the vial in unseen, then type the short code printed under the glass's coaster into the nightcap box on this page. Only the buyer's code counts, and the page will say only “Noted.”
7. Do your tell, a small habit you no longer notice, at least three times before the nightcap. Do not overdo it.
8. Whoever finishes him takes Cassie's seat and the Veil. You are competing with others you cannot name, and every one of you has the right to try.

Mihir Nagarkatti of Nag Oil,

That is the name you have worn since 1925, and I am one of very few who know what it covers.

The old man will be in the room tonight. You know the one I mean. I will not write his name where a letter can be lost.

Every one of you was meant to be dead, and you are not. Do not waste the evening being surprised.

Why it must be you is yours to remember. You have told yourself a great many stories since. Sit quietly with the true one.

You will not be told who else was sent for. The House keeps one bottle, and it is sold once. Be quick, and be quiet.

THE BLACK VEIL

You are one who got away

Edmund Lyle

The Notary

MARKER No. 19

WHO YOU WERE

You are Edmund Lyle, the Black Veil's Notary. At 23:02 on 31 October 1924 you witnessed the Exit Compact on the private landing, one of four. You have not liked your own signature since.

HOW YOU GOT AWAY

A barker's job was open and nobody checks a barker's papers. You became Luke Shelldon, a man with a megaphone instead of a seal, and you paint every handbill yourself, which is as close to signing things as you dare.

YOUR TELL

You dot every i with a tiny ring and tap your pen twice after you sign anything. Do it at least three times before the nightcap.

WHAT LEAKS THROUGH

You spot a false signature at ten paces and could write any hand in the room.

THE RULES FOR YOU

1. You are one who got away. You know the old man hunted you and the people you trusted, and you know who he is. Others probably escaped too, but you do not know how many or who. Everyone else has been told only that survivors are in the room. Your cover is your public card. Keep it.
2. Your invitation came unsigned, and it knew the new name you have used ever since. Only one person could have known it. Working out who is one of your errands.
3. You carry marker No. 19. It is yours alone: never trade it, never give it away. It is how you pay the House.
4. You have told yourself so many stories since 1925 that you are no longer certain of your real reason for coming. You only know that you must be the one. Somebody in this room saw what he did to you; finding out is one of your errands.
5. The House keeps one bottle of tincture and sells it once a night, to whoever shows the Butler a marker first. Make your offer before the nightcap is served at nine o'clock. Only one of you can be the one.

Sylvia Ballard

The Milliner

MARKER No. 20

WHO YOU WERE

You are Sylvia Ballard, the Black Veil's Milliner and costume mistress: the masks, the gowns and the hats for the masquerade. On 31 October 1924 you dressed the Veil's people for the Exit. A department store is the one place where nobody asks who made the clothes.

HOW YOU GOT AWAY

You were fitting a gown on Canal Street when the hitman's man came for your girls. You left by the coal cellar with a hatbox and a bolt of silk, and never went back.

YOUR TELL

You straighten any hat brim you pass, your own or a stranger's, without thinking. Do it at least three times before the nightcap.

WHAT LEAKS THROUGH

You can name a stitch, a dye lot and a maker at a glance, and you cannot stop pricing what people are wearing.

THE RULES FOR YOU

1. You are one who got away. You know the old man hunted you and the people you trusted, and you know who he is. Others probably escaped too, but you do not know how many or who. Everyone else has been told only that survivors are in the room. Your cover is your public card. Keep it.

Dominic Marek

The Doorman

MARKER No. 21

WHO YOU WERE

You are Dominic Marek, the Black Veil's Doorman, who held the river door. On the night of the Exit you let two people out at 23:47 and barred the door behind them. You have never sat with your back to a door since.

HOW YOU GOT AWAY

You ran. A gunsmith's shop needed a man who knew doors and locks, and you learned guns because every doorman should know what a bad guest carries.

YOUR TELL

You never sit with your back to a door, and you count the exits in every room you enter. Do it at least three times before the nightcap.

WHAT LEAKS THROUGH

You remember every face and name after a single introduction, and you can tell a lie by the feet.

THE RULES FOR YOU

1. You are one who got away. You know the old man hunted you and the people you trusted, and you know who he is. Others probably escaped too, but you do not know how many or who. Everyone else has been told only that survivors are in the room. Your cover is your public card. Keep it.

Winifred “Winnie” Pike

The Runner

MARKER No. 22

WHO YOU WERE

You are Winifred “Winnie” Pike, the Black Veil's Runner: the Canadian mail, the late editions, the messages that could not be telephoned. You carried the invitations to the Exit on 31 October 1924.

HOW YOU GOT AWAY

You were on a back road with a message when the hitman's boatman came. You ran, hid under a newsie's bundle, and cried the late edition on a corner until the corner was your own.

YOUR TELL

You glance at the nearest clock every time a door opens, and again when it closes. Do it at least three times before the nightcap.

WHAT LEAKS THROUGH

You know every street, back stair and short cut in Manchester, and you can read a newspaper upside down.

THE RULES FOR YOU

1. You are one who got away. You know the old man hunted you and the people you trusted, and you know who he is. Others probably escaped too, but you do not know how many or who. Everyone else has been told only that survivors are in the room. Your cover is your public card. Keep it.

Tie-breaker. Only if two guests tie on points, ask the tied guests aloud: “At what time did the Keeper's train out of Manchester leave?” Answer: 11:12 in the evening (11:12 PM). A second rail stub sewn into the lining of the dead man's jacket: Boston & Maine, Manchester to Boston, 23 October, 11:12 PM, one way.

BARTEND JOE: your one page

You do not need /admin until the end. The game opens on every phone by itself at 8:00 p.m. The House closes by itself at 9:00, and the book closes by itself at 10:30.

Your whole job

1. At the door: hand each guest their black envelope and anything they carry.
2. When a guest comes to the bar to claim a point, check it really happened (the table below), then tell them the approval word. Say a word to nobody else.
3. Fortune cards: Josh collects his twelve fortune cards from you.
4. Josh's minute: before 8:30 he tells you the minute he expects the scream. Seal it in an envelope.
5. About 9:05: stage the scene (jacket, glass, empty vial, the buyer's marker from the tin, scene pages).
6. 10:00 wrap-up: hand Eric the charter (he signs it, the code is on it). Give Leon the bulletin to read aloud:
   "This evening the Keeper of the Black Veil was found dead at his table. The House has lifted its veil, the dead are not dead, and Manchester will hear the rest in the morning." Then read Cassie's letter.
7. 10:30: everything closes. Then grade (see the run of show).

The approval words

Guest	Claim	Check first	Word
Angelos Bowles	Deal them in	Ask a player or two: did he deal them in?	juniper
Sheriff Theodor Farrago	Make the arrest	Did he make an arrest after the scream, before 10:15?	pomegranate
Leon Gee of WFEA	Read the bulletin	Hand him the bulletin; did he read it aloud?	thistle
Silas Palmer of the Palm Court	The spotlight	Did he take the floor about 8:30 for five minutes?	walnut
Joshua Kamin-Sky	The prophecy	After the scream, open his envelope: was he within a few minutes?	saffron
Joshua Kamin-Sky	The fortunes	Did he read four different guests a fortune card?	cobblestone
Rebecca Chow, Butler of the Black Veil	The scream	Did you hear her scream at about 9:15?	lavender
Erika Lamm	Steal something	Ask who she robbed: did she get it, unseen?	marzipan

The group races need nothing from you: the first member of each group to type all three slip codes wins the point on their own phone, and the survivors race for the vial through the Butler.
